200 years of migration to England

out of copyright - Jewish Museum, London

RT. HON. SIR ALFRED MOND, BART.

"I have been very interested to learn that you have succeeded in compiling so complete a record of the services in the Imperial Forces of members of the Jewish race. Though but a small community amidst the vast population of the British Empire, the record shows in proportion to their number that they gallantly responded to the call of the defence of an Empire whose generous and tolerant treatment has for generations made them feel an identity of devotion to its cause with all other citizens. This is a record of which we have a right to be proud as Jews and as citizens of the British Empire. I sincerely hope that the labour of love which you have devoted in compiling this work will have that great success which it deserves, and that the book will not only find a permanent place in all Jewish homes, but will find a wider distribution and become a testimony of the Jewish sacrifices and efforts on behalf of the British Empire in the world's greatest war."

(Signed) ALFRED MOND.
